THE CHARLEROI MAIL

VOL XIX. NO 85 — CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13 1918 — TWO CENTS

OVER FIFTEEN HUNDRED MEN ARE REGISTERED IN CHARLEROI

Total Number Equals Estimate Placed by Draft Officials

MAY TAKE 300 FOR SERVICE

Fifteen hundred and eighty-eight men in Charleroi between the ages of 18 and 21 and 31 and 46 years, registered at the various polling places in the borough on Thursday for military service. These registrants were divided among the various precincts as foiolws:

First precinct—358.
Second precinct—167.
Third precinct—161.
Fourth precinct—366.
Fifth precinct—260
Sixth precinct—276.

This number of registrants reaches the estimates made by a number of citizens on Thursday and is not disappointing in its total. It is likely that only one community, Donora, will exceed it in number of registrants in the Fifth District and the record is considered very flattering. Of the total number registered in Charleroi it is estimated that at least three hundred will be called into the military and naval service of the United States during the coming year. It is estimated that it will take about one man out of every five to make up the quota of the district, this number varying slightly with circumstances. The young men of 19 and 20 and those from 32 to 36 will be called first. the 18-year-olds and those from 36 up being placed last on the list. It is possible that the older men will be given positions in the ordnance and quartermaster's department where they can relieve a much younger man for service in the trenches. The younger men will be used largely in active warfare and the more arduous duties which fall to the lot of the soldier.

The draft board at Donora has all the returns from the Fifth District, which are being compiled and will be forwarded to State Draft headquarters as soon as they are completed

CLAIMS HEAVY DAMAGES FROM RAILWAYS COMPANY

Paul Booth and Julia Booth have filed a suit against the Pittsburg Railways company, per receivers in which they claim $15.000 damages. The action is based on personal injuries received by Mrs. Booth in alighting from a car of the defendant company at West Belle Vernon. It is averred that the car was started before Mrs. Booth had reached the ground and that she was thrown to the street badly injured.

SOLDIERS' VOTES TO BE TAKEN IN CAMP

While no decision has been reached as to whether commissioners will go to France to take thesoldier vote November 6 the commonwealth has decided to send 125 commissioners to training camps in the United States to take the votes of 150,000 Pennsylvania troops who will still be in America on election day. There will be 340,000 Pennsylvanians in service outside the state in November. It is considered unlikely that commissioners will go abroad.

FIFTH DISTRICT REGISTERS 6,508

The total registration for the Fifth District of Washington county, consisting of the boroughs of New Eagle, Donora, North Charleroi and Charleroi thecity of Monongahela and the township of Fallowfield and Carroll, reached a total of 6,508 according to the report furnished by the Draft Board from its headquarters at Donora at noon today. his is almost 28 pTer cent in excess of the registration of June 5, 1917 at which time slightly over 5,100 male residents registered for military service. More complete details of the registration can begiven tomorrow.

SELLS HIS HOME FOR A HANDSOME SUM

Charles G. McIlvain a former Monongahela attorney has sold his mansion and surrounding grounds of eight and one-half acres on Prospect avenue, Ingram. to the Pittsburg Home for Babies The price of the property is said to have been considerably over $100.000 The estate is one of the most beautiful in Allegheny county, and was purchased by Mr McIlvain in 1907 from the executors of the estate of George VonBonnhorst. former Recorder of Allegheny county The new owners will take possession of the property on the first of November. Mr. McIlvain comes of the well known McIlvain family of Washington county and for many years was a resident of Carroll township, a short distance from the present town of Donora

GEORGE RANKIN'S SON KILLED IN BATTLE

Charleroi citizens remember with a great deal of pleasure of the visit of George Rankin, Jr, cashier of the Central National Bank of Wilkinsburg who made such a splendid address at the big Liberty Loan meeting held in our town at which time the Great Lakes Naval Training School band was here. hey Twill likewise sympathize with him in the loss of his son Sergeant David S. Rankin of Company L. 111th Infantry. who died in France on the 12th o fAugust from wounds received in action.

Donora Boy Is Cited For Bravery

Mrs James Gilchrist of Donora, mother of Robert L. Behanna a member of Company A, First Machine Gun Battalion, has received official word from the headquarters of the First Division, A. E. F., France, that her son has been officially cited for conspicuous gallantry in action The general orders conferring the high honor upon the young soldier reads as follows:

"The Division Commander cites the following man for conspicuous gallantry in action:

"Private Robert L. Behanna, Company A, First Machine Gun Battalion took chargeof his squad and kept his machine gun in action after his corporal and three members of his squad had been killed.

"By command of Major General Bullard.

"H. K. Lougry, aMjor F. A N. A. Division Adjutant."

Robert Behanna was one of Donora's volunteer boys. leaving his home town soon after war was declared. His distinction comes as a high honor not only to the boy and his mother, but to his home town.

More Consideration For All Passengers

The seating of passengers is a "live subject" in railroad operating circles these days. The executives of the passenger departments are keeping close tab on trains, with respect to how many people have been compelled to stand. One official recently noticed that people were standing in the coaches of a train and he also observed that few people were riding in the parlor car. There was a suggestion from this official at once, that the parlor car be removed from the equipment of the train and that a coach be substituted. This suggestion is paramount to an order and it is said that parlor cars will beshortly dropped from all trains hereabouts.

A few weeks ago Director General McAdoo ordered the Chespeake & Ohio to run more cars on passenger trains in the Cincinnati district The director general was on an inspection trip in that district and noticed that trains were overcrowded. There was considerable publicity given to this incident, but since then in all sections of the country, more attention has been paid to giving service and a seat to passengers.

On the Monongahela Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad more cars have been noticed of late on passenger trains much to thecomfort and convenience of the traveling public. For run trains with but few cars. some of them only carrying two passenger coaches. but evidently acting on a tip from government officials this practice has been abandoned and the public given more consideration.

EPWORTH LEAGUE RALLY AT BENTLEYVILLE

A rally of the Monongahela Sub-District of the Epworth League will be held at the Bentleyville camp grounds. Saturday. September 14, 1918, afternoon and evening. The program is in charge of thesocial department of the Sub-District. "A miniature trip to Ridgeview Park" will be a feature of the day. The afternoon session will begin at 3 o'clock and the evening session at 7 o'clock

BIG ADDITION TO SHIRE OAKS ENGINE HOUSE

The Pennsylvania Railroad is having plans made for an addition to its engine house at Shire Oaks. to cost approximately $100,000. Work is already under way on a large amount of improvements at the Shire Oaks yards which are being prepared to handle a largely increased amount of business.

BROKE UP THE GAME BUT WAS KNOCKED DOWN

A certain woman of Fayette City a few Sundays ago demonstrated how it was possibleto break up a poker game but in the melee which followed the confiscation of the cards she was knocked down by her husband who was one of the interested participants. The woman had become tired of staying at home looking after four small children, with nothing to eat in the house, so she started out to locate her other half. She found him with a bunch of cronies in a secluded spot. all of whom were very much interested in a little game. The woman made a grab for thecards and money but the "gams" beat her to the money, although she managed to get the cards and as a consequence she broke up the game. However, she was struck by her husband, against whom she promises to make aninformation for assault and battery.

CHARLEROI BOYS ARE IN THE BIG DRIVE ON GERMAN FRONT

Men Who Trained at Sherman, Hancock and Meade In Thick of Fight

DRIVE IS KEENLY WATCHED

In all probability there are a large number of Charleroi boys in the big drive now under way by the American army in the St. Mihiel salient, which began early Thursday morning. The local boys are principally in the 28th, 79th and 83rd Divisions. all of which are parts of the big American army which Gen. Pershing is now directing against the German lines with a view of straghtening out the salient of which St. Mihiel is the point.

The Twenty-eight Divison is commanded by Major General Muir and is a part of the Second Corps commanded by General Bullard: the Eighty-third Division is commanded by General Glenn and is a part of the Fourth Corps commanded by General Read and the Seventy-ninth Division is commanded by Major General Kuhn and is a part of the Fifth Corps commanded by Gen. Bundy.

The Twenty-eight Division trained at Camp Hancock, the Eighty-third at Camp Sherman and the Seventy-ninth at Camp Meade. All of these troops are spoken of as being trained to the minute and will undoubtedly give a splendid account of themselves. The Twenty-eighth is already regarded as a veteran division, having been on the firing line since early in July, and having taken conspicuous part in the second battle of the Marne and particularly at Chateau-Thierry, where the American soldiers gained such undying fame.

The success of the American troops will be watched with greater interest than ever by the Charleroi people at this time, for the reason that so many of their kin are a part of the great offensive which is now under way. and which is meeting with such success. Military observers say the object of the drive is to straighten a salient; others that the objective is the great city of Metz, but whatever it may be the people at home feel assured that the objectives will be gained. The boys at the front are eager to begin the march to Berlin.

WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN WITH BIG PARADE

Monessen, which made such a splendid record during the third Liberty loan campaign will open the fourth campaign on Sunday, September 29, with a big parade Jesse Hancock has been named as Chief Marshal for the occasion and arrangements for the event are now under way and practically all of the societies of the town are expected to take part.

HIGH BID FOR PIKE RUN BRIDGE

In the matter of the proposed construction of a new bridge on the Pike Run road, to replace a bridge wrecked by heavy truck, the commissioners have before them a proposition from the Horsehead Construction company, with factories at Elmira, N. Y.

Bids were to be received on Monday but only one was presented. tI proposes to erect a bridge such as would be required at a cost of a little over $4,800. This commissioners considered very high.

The Horseshoe Construction Co., has offered to thecounty a second hand structure, but guaranteed to be practically as good as new, at a figure of about $2,700. The material offered by this construction company is at Lacyville, Wyoming county on the Susquehanna river. It is two spans of a river bridge, the center span of which was taken out by the ice.

The Horseshoe company, whose business is to buy second hand bridges and rebuild them, agrees to rebuild such a bridge as thecounty needs on the Pike Run road. and that it will stand up under the heaviest traffic. They guarantee this and guarantee the material. This contract price includes concrete bases for the bridge.

This acceptance of this company's offer means a saving of $2,100. This company put in two bridges in this county. one on Pike Run and one at Van Voorhis and they are the best bridges in the county—at least the controller T. J. Underwood. who balked at the proposition of this company at the time it was made on these two bridges. is reported to have said they were the best in the county.

SALVAGING WAR HEROES

Although this awful war is disabling millions of soldiers the world is not to have, after the war, the spectacle of such unfortunates eking out a humiliating and precarious existence as beggars, makers of useless "souvenirs," pencil peddlers, etc., or as recipients of pauperizing remittances in the form of pensions. That such conditions have existed in this and other countries after other wars has seldom if ever, been due to national ingratitude, but rather to the fact that people really did not know how to handle such unfortunate situations.

Now all this is changed. Humanity has been awakened by the very magnitude of the destructiveness of this war and has undertaken a world-wide conservation movement for the salvaging of disabled soldiers. The Belgians were the first to begin this work. From the very start the undertaking was tremendous. The task of rehabilitating the thousands of Belgian wounded alone seemed almost impossible, especially since there were no plans nor precedents to follow and only very meagre and unsuitable means with which to carry out any plan. There were simply the seemingly endless numbers of destitute, dazed, despairing soldiers who needed to be fed mended and taught to forget their woes. It was at once apparent that if they were to be saved, their minds must be occupied. France needed workers and it was found that, notwithstanding their wounds, most of these unfortunate could do good work in useful occupations. It was also found that such employment promoted cheerfulness and greatly aided their recovery.

At first this work of reconstruction was conducted by philanthropic individuals at their own expense, but soon the importance was officially recognized and early in 1915 the Belgian government established at Port Villez, France, anational vocational training school for the war-injured. This establishment is very extensive and has thoroughly demonstrated the great value of work as acurative measure. It has also revealed the remarkable possibilities of vacational education and employment as a means of reconstructing disabled men and readapting them for useful and profitable occupations.

The pioneer work of Belgium along this line was quickly followed by France. It was also soon taken up in England, Italy, and other allied countries and now extensive work of this character is being taken in here. Canada alone is giving nearly two hundred different courses of vocational training to its disabled soldiers and the United States is preparing to give all of these courses as well as many others which have proven valuable in England, France, Belgium and even in Germany, where the boast is made that in one trade alone—that of oxacetyelne gas welding—over 20,000 men too badly crippled to fight are doing war work of the utmost importance. It is largely due to careful conservation of her man-power that Germany has been able to put up such a powerful and tenacious fight and while America now has many millions of men available for war work possible effort will be made to win the war without any unnecesary waste of man-power.

FLEECE THE PROFITEERS

In some instances the Government has been enabled to lay a restraining hand on the profiteer. The fuel administrator has saved countless people from freezing by holding down the price of coal far below what it otherwise would be, and the food administration has kept bread within reach of even those wage earners whose line of work brings them no share of "war prosperity." But the profiteering investigations brought before Congress are said to uncover a whole range of industries over which no form of control has yet been established and in which profits of thousands per cent have been taken from the helpless consumer. The manifest need is to bring to the bar of justice and regulate these also.

Will it be done? Can it be done? Certainly it can not be done by means of mere appeals to patriotism. No voluntary action of the right sort can be expected from the profiteer. But if conscienceless greed can not be regulated as the public's consumption of food is regulated can be chastened and curbed through parliament of all sort it would most keenly feel. Excessive profiteering would become less fascinating if the Government should seize for the uses of the nation the greater part of the profiteer's gains. The profiteer would consent to receive 6 per cent if by so doing he could reduce an enormous tax requirement of him. It is obvious further that by fleecing the profiteers the Government would be enabled to reduce the taxes demanded of the people generally. A proper solution of this grave problem is admittedly difficult, but it commands the attention of the wisest available statesmanship.

COTTAGE CHEESE HAS COME TO STAY

Cottage cheese, although well known on grandmother's table made its first bow as a real food in many city homes only recently.

No longer is it regarded merely as an attractive garnish for a salad. It now stands firmly as a very popular main dish of a meal and one of the cheapest and most wholesome substitutes for meat.

In Spokane, Washington, as a result of a recent cottage cheese campaign the daily sales increased from 100 to 1800 pounds. Daily sales of cottage cheese in Salt Lake City, Seattle, San Francisco and Spokane together were 3,969 pounds more than before the campaign.

Although this increased consumption of cottage cheese is urged purely as a war measure to save meat, it does not seem likely that this delicious food will ever again sink into its past obscurity.

The cafeteria in the United States Food Administration building in Washington, D. C., where a daily average of more than 600 employees are catered to, orders 20 quarts of cottage cheese daily to be served in plain molds at 5 cents a plate. Thirty-six more quarts daily are used in salads, where the cottage cheese forms the substantial part and is combined with peppers, parsley, nuts, tomatoes, etc.

Another favorite way serving cottage cheese in this cafeteria is to make it into loaves combined with beans, peas, rice, jelly or nuts.

Although cottage cheese can be bought from nearly every milkman it is made so simply that most housewives prepare it themselves. Warm sour milk, either whole or skimmed, can be used. Set it on the back of the stove or put a bowl of it into a pan of hot but not boiling water for about 20 minutes. Stir occasionally and when the curds and whey separate pour off the whey through a sieve. Work the curd with a spoon and let it drain. When fairly dry work again until smooth.

GERMAN CONFESSIONS

More and more are the Huns convicted out of their own mouths. Following several frankly written books by anonymous Germans came Prince Lichnowsky's famous "memorandum" unanswerably placing the responsibility for this war upon the German leaders, and now comes the diary of Dr. Muehlon with its illuminating revelations of German character. Here are some quotations from the former director of the Krupp works whose diary found its way into print:

"When we Germans find ourselves the weaker party we demand of the other party treatment which we never vouchsafe when we are the stronger. . . . If German policy consisted merely of selfishness and calculation it would still be less contemptible than it is today by reason of its strong infusion of brutality. . . . We have dealt more unscrupulously than ever Bismark did. . . . The Germans circulate truth or falsehood as it suits the purposes of the moment. Disgusting hypocrisy and cunning, contempt for the people, and criminal anxiety manifest themselves in this piety. It aims at nothing but the sanctification of falsehood, the adoration of brutality and the deification of William II. . . . No one in Germany believes that there is a more effective instrument than corruption."

The first quotation is particularly interesting at a time when the Germans, losing their old arrogance and confidence the moment disaster begins, are howling like weaklings and reminding the world that the cornered bully is always a coward.

THE FLYING MACHINE

Ten years ago on the 12th day of September, Orville Wright made a two-plane airplane flight at Fort Myer and remained in the air for one hour and 14 minutes.

At the time it was accomplished this was a remarkable feat, as it was the beginning of the development of the aeroplane, which today has become a vital factor in warfare. Ten years ago airplanes were scarce—in fact the quantity was practically nil. They were then in state of development and had been for a number of years, but the Wright brothers had demonstrated that these machines could be made to rise and to remain in the air for a considerable time.

A record has been kept of these machines that they are now being used by the thousands in Europe, although the American made is reputably unspectacular by its shortness. However the war department hopes to get things going in a short time so that it will be possible to place thousands of these machines at the disposal of the American flyers, along the western front, where they will no doubt give splendid account of themselves.

The experiments of ten years ago, however, were only preliminary to the wonderful development of the flying machine of which in former years we looked upon with more or less derision, of which the experience of "Darious Green" was a sample.

A SPLENDID ANSWER

The registration on Thursday of so many millions of men for the military service of the United States will be a reassuring message to the boys who are already on duty in the trenches in France. It will convey to them the assurance that Uncle Sam is on the job and that the men at home who were heretofore denied the privilege of enrolling for service have loyally answered the clarion call of the country and are now ready for any duty the government may ask them to do. Of course it is not expected that all of the men who enrolled on Thursday will be taken; the government does not need them. Out of the almost ten million men who enrolled in 1917 about three million were summoned for service, the balance of the registrants being given deferred classification for various reasons.

From the millions registered yesterday, however, the government expects no trouble in securing the two millions of men it requires to bring the strength of our military forces up to five million and even to a larger number should conditions require it. The one thing the government proposes to do is to place the military strength of the country at such a point that we will have sufficient power, along with our allies, to push the Hun along with the Kaiser and his junkers back to Berlin. It may not be this winter—few expect that it will be—but it will undoubtedly come next summer.

Live Huns to the number of 100,000 is a pretty good haul for six weeks, to say nothing of the dead, the wounded, and the rattled legions that are beating it toward the Rhine.

The Government's present war expenses are estimated at about $70,000,000 a day or more than $30,000,000,000 a year. How much of this colossal outlay goes to the profiteers is not stated.

The man who can not "make a speech" is not necessarily a fool, a coward, or hopelessly shy. In his "Men of Genius" cites Descartes, Corneille, Virgil, Addison, Fontaine, Dryden, Manzoni and Newton among the many eminent men who could not express themselves in public.

Remember.

When the war is over, no excuse will go.

Either you were in it or you were not.

Either you shouldered your gun, served in the trenches or the Young Men's Christian association, the Red Cross or in some place where the door was opened, or else you did nothing.

If you could not serve, you could send your boys with a Godspeed, as they marched out to the front. To hold them back stamped them as slackers.

Either you strained your resources to buy Liberty bonds or you forgot your obligation to those who fought and died for your flag.

Disqualification for active service is no justification for forgetting the boys behind the guns who sacrificed all thought of gain and were willing to sacrifice their lives at their country's call.—Leslie's

The total embarkation of American soldiers for all battle fronts had passed the 1,600,000 mark on August 1 and the business of smashing the Hun is going steadily forward.

"Well, sir," said the guide, "you gentlemen may have come from apes. It's not for me to contradict you. But, as for me, I can say that my folks came from Wales."

Things Worth Knowing.

Guard within yourself that treasure kindness. Know how to give without hesitation, how to lose without regret, how to acquire without meanness. Know how to replace in your heart by the happiness of those you love, the happiness that may be wanting in yourself.—F. W. Faber.

Really Great Victory.

It is a conquest when we can lift ourselves above the annoyances of circumstances over which we have no control; but it is a greater victory when we can make those circumstances our helpers, when we can appreciate the good that is in them.—Lucy Larcom.

For Postal Card Users.

According to decisions of the postoffice department, anything written or printed on the address side of a government postal card, except the address itself, that is, anything in the nature of a message on the address side, renders the card unmailable.

HOW A YOUNG GIRL SUFFERED

And Was Restored to Health By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Told By Her Mother.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For three months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I didn't know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. M. FINORE, 516 Marcy Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

What Do You Think of That?

There is an aspect of spider and fly relation which fabulists and naturalists alike have overlooked. An observer has brought the microscope to bear on many house flies and finds that the parasite upon that hateful insect is often an immature spider. Too weak yet to spin its web it makes the fly its winged palfrey, and courses from place to place at the will of its captive; either until Pegasus perishes naturally or presumably until the rider has grown to size is able to make a meal of his steed.

Gordon's Defense of Khartum.

For sheer duration General Gordon's heroic defense of Khartum excelled all modern sieges, for it lasted 317 days, or just nine days shorter than the Russian repertoire of Sebastopol. Unfortunately, as we all know, its termination was a tragedy, embittered by the fact that a very few days later the would-be army of relief arrived, only in time to pick up the threads of a pitiful disaster.

A New Dodge.

To a Natal Kaffir belongs the credit of inventing a labor-saving device for chimney cleaning. One of the colony journals says: "A native in Weenen had been asked to sweep a chimney, which he undertook to do. Later he was seen mounting the ladder he used for the purpose with a couple of fowls under his arm. These he allowed to flutter down the flue, and the job was done.

French "Immortals."

The French "immortals" are the members of the French Academy, which is part of the Institute of France. The institute was founded by Cardinal Richelieu in 1635 and reorganized in 1816. The membership of the academy is limited to forty, and new members are elected by the old membership.

Quality of Courage.

Cowardice in any form prevails only in instances where the individual is unaccompanied by a being possessing stronger forces. In the company of one or more courageous fellow beings the most fearful man not only becomes fearless but will exhibit courage.—Exchange.

Fog Magnifies.

If you see a person in a fog he seems to be much bigger than usual. The same thing happens when you see men or cattle on the top of a hill against the horizon in twilight. In both cases you judge them to be farther away than they really are, and consequently they appear uncommonly large.

Modern Version.

While little Helen was at Sunday school they repeated the Twenty-third Psalm and when she arrived home, her mother asked her what she had learned that day. Helen replied without hesitation: "The Lord is my chauffeur, I shall not walk."

Short but Not Merry.

An ethnologist says the natives of New Guinea are the shortest-lived people in the world because they eat beetles and drink seawater. Not every short life's a merry one.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Uncle Eben.

"Too much of de gift of prophecy," said Uncle Eben, "is dangerous. De man dat knows in advance whut hand he's gwineter git in a poker game ain' no fit associate."

The old-fashioned lover who used to plunk a guitar under his sweetheart's window now has a son who phones to his girl to meet him at the drug store.—Dallas News.

To Clear Bluing.

Tie several thicknesses of cotton over the mouth of a bluing bottle if you would have the bluing flow smoothly and without dark particles.

Best of Rewards.

The best reward for any faithful work is the privilege of going on and proving our faithfulness with more difficult tasks.—Lucy Larcom.

New Water Heater.

A fireplace grate made of tubing through which water can be circulated to distribute heat about a room has been patented by an inventor.

Enameled Ware.

The best way to clean enameled ware is to use a little ordinary salt and no soda; this will keep it in new condition.

Can't Do It Alone.

If a man ever becomes truly great it is usually the help of a devoted wife that is responsible for it.—Chicago Daily News.
